"Dr. Parkhurst." he went on, "may be a gentleman, but I think it would be much better taste on his part to help these people whom he condomns to learn something about Christ, and not seek to railroad them to jail, driving them further away from religion every day there is none so peop or lowly here that cannot be reached—who cannot be converted. Is he going the proper way to do it? No, he is not.

"So far as I am concerned, Lamake no distinction of persons or creed, but I will say that I think Dr. Parkhurst is bringing disgrose upon his cloth, "So far as the crowd gathering in my precinct is concerned, I cannot help that I cannot prevent a crowd from gathering no more than I could joirevent the lion in Eighteenth street from drawing thousands to the spot, and, by the way, Dr. Parkhurst's agents seem to think they are llous. They enter police courts and obtain warrants, state over the heads of people in a most offensive way, and act generally as if they wanted to be attacked. How am I to help what follows?

"If these people want to uphold the minimum suffrage party State Committee advises women throughout New York City and Brooklyin, to demand registry as volers this afterness and evening, and increase that the Woman Suffrage law is not increased. It is not nonsense; it is worse. It is an outrage. Suppose that no evidence of this attack upon our agents is had before Mr. Byrnes, with whom I have no desire to enter into a controversy, what then?

"Is it not a fact that time and time again we have gone before him with evidence—bushels of it? What was the result? Does not the public already inderstand that the Police Department does not want us? Have they not said, even through their Board of Commissioners, that they will hear no more complaints from us, that they will have nothing more to do with us at all?

"My answer is that we have much to de with them. We are only beginning as they will find out before long.

"Such a little thing as this assault will not deter us. It makes us only all the stronger. The assault upon our agents speaks for itself. We have all along declared that the police were hand and glove with the thieves, thugs and law-breakers of the city. The assault proves it.

"It shows that when the thieves and

Mansfield, in the mean time, made plans for a little romance of his own and announced victory this morning when he told his employer that he had won as a bride Miss Middred Hill, daughter of George T, Hill, a dry-goods merchant at 41 Leonard street, who lives at 275 West Seventy-first street.

The woolng and winning were more exciting because of the protest of Mr. Hill and deflance of Miss Hill's aunt. Mr. Monsheld said this morning, however, that it was this aunt who made all the trouble including a scene in a cigar store.
